

Caribbean Windward Islands

Barbados, with its rich history and beautiful beaches, boasts abundant shipwrecks and endangered hawksbill turtles. Grenada, part of the Grenadines, is delightfully unspoiled. Along with seahorses, divers will find schools of colorful reef fish. Covered with dense rainforests, waterfalls and the trademark twin Pitons, St. Lucia features shallow reefs and drift dives with an abundance of colorful fish and invertebrate life. Tobago, next to Trinidad, is renowned for the bird sanctuaries and manta ray drift dives. The beauty of St. Vincent's dramatic coastline extends underwater to some of the Caribbean's best undiscovered diving.
